The Graduate School of Teacher Education (Professional Degree Program)
has started to accept international students from April 2024

- ◆ We welcome students who will become able to internationally implement Japanese educational systems from school management and educational practice perspectives.
- ◆ We have established a new entrance exam category* for the “selection of international students, etc.”
- ◆ International students may apply for all programs and subprograms offered at the Graduate School for Teacher Education (enrollment quota will be limited).
- ◆ Those who successfully complete the program will earn Master of Education in Teaching (professional degree).
- ◆ Students can receive guidance for writing a specialized dissertation and have their dissertation reviewed (this applies to only those students who take the advanced research program).
- ◆ Students can also choose to go on to the doctoral course.
- ◆ The curriculum will be the same as for general Japanese students except for “specialist teaching practice” (classes are taught in Japanese). The curriculum for “Management for School Organization” program assumes that students have knowledge and experience equivalent to that of an incumbent Japanese school teacher.
- ◆ “Specialist teaching practice” will be conducted in various settings including actual schools, according to the student’s aptitude.

!! You cannot obtain a Japanese teaching license through this program !!
